Biographical/Historical Data

The Middle Georgia College archive holds records from as early as the 1920s to the present. Located near downtown Cochran, Ga, MGC had many names; The New Ebenezer College (1884-1898), Middle Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical Junior College (1919-1929), and Middle Georgia College (1929-2012). The college grew several times throughout the years taking on a Dublin branch in 1984, and in 2007 the Georgia Aviation Technical College in Eastman was merged with MGC to form a 3-campus college. 2012 brought another merger with Macon State College to form Middle Georgia State College, later in 2015 retitled as a university.

Scope and Content

The Middle Georgia State University Archives & Special Collections Roberts Memorial Library holds yearbooks, annuals, and directories from Middle Georgia College. The oldest from 1927 “Las Memorias” to the 2006 Hilltopper. Some years are missing and have been noted in the inventory list below. Note, other copies of the yearbooks live on the second floor, behind the circulation desk. Scans are being made thus they are not with the full collection. Additionally, copies of the Hilltopper are located in the Macon Campus Library due to their use in marketing campaigns by the administration.
