Biographical/Historical Data

The Middle Georgia College archive holds records from as early as the 1920s to the present. Located near downtown Cochran, Ga, MGC had many names; The New Ebenezer College (1884-1898), Middle Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical Junior College (1919-1929), and Middle Georgia College (1929-2012). The college grew several times throughout the years taking on a Dublin branch in 1984, and in 2007 the Georgia Aviation Technical College in Eastman was merged with MGC to form a 3-campus college. 2012 brought another merger with Macon State College to form Middle Georgia State College, later in 2015 retitled as a university.

Scope and Content

The Middle Georgia State University Archives & Special Collections Roberts Memorial Library catalog collection includes catalogs and directories for the 12th District Agricultural & Mechanical School and Middle Georgia College spanning from 1923 to 2009. Student publications such as the Muses includes literary writings, poems, illustrations, and more from 1969 to 2003. The catalogs listed in this finding aid are physical items. There will be a separate finding aid for digital content. Finally, there is a series of bulletins that would have been in addition to the catalogs for student use. This would include information about events, the academic calendar, and resources to assist students through their registration process.
